

IICA offers WACS certification!

World Association of Chef's Societies (WACS) was initially founded in October, 1928 in Sorbonne, Paris, France, as a global network of chef's associations developed to validate the achievements of professional cooks, chefs and culinary educators around the world who wished to gain recognition for their skills, knowledge and experience. Currently, WACS is a global network of over 100 chef associations and 10 million professional chefs.

Being a WACS affiliated chef

IICA, New Delhi is accredited by WACS and has also won their coveted Quality Culinary Education award. This momentous development allowed IICA students the rare occasion to earn credits towards their WACS certification during their graduation.

Being a Worldchef-certified student of IICA will allow you to get a giant head start in your careers. Not only will your prospective employers know your level of skill and quest for knowledge, the WACS badge on your CV will open up the entire world for your employment opportunities after graduating.
